TOMLINSON UNDER $5,000 BONDS

Unable to Furnish Them and is Now in Jail where He Can be Found—More Witnesses in the Cooper Luying Case

In the criminal superior court on Wednesday afternoon State Attorney Hull called to the attention of Judge Wheeler the case against George Tomlinson of Groton, whose case was continued from last term, he being charged with an assault upon Helen Smith of this city, who was working as a domestic at Groton. Tomlinson sat in the court room on the prisoners' bench and the state attorney stated that at the January term he had pleaded not guilty to the charge and had had his case continued under $5,000 until this term. His mother, Mrs. Lamb, furnished the security and he has been at liberty. He informed the court that this was the case in which the bonds had been called last week and he moved that it be opened. Judge Wheeler stated that he saw no reason why the bond should not be opened and it was so ordered.

The state attorney said that the accused had left the state and had evaded the law and frustrated attempts to assign the case for trial. Wednesday officers found him in Groton and brought him into court. He recommended a new bond and that the amount be $5,000. Judge Wheeler fixed the bond at that amount. Tomlinson was unable to get security and went to jail with Deputy Sheriff Noyes.

Tomlinson is now where he can be found when wanted. Tuesday morning he should have been in court but was missing, but showed up just after court adjourned in the afternoon, somewhat surprised that he was too late. Tuesday was only one of many times when he couldn't be found when wanted.

Having given Tomlinson ample opportunity, State Attorney Hull decided to go out and get him. Wednesday morning Deputy Sheriff Tubbs and Constable Card of Groton started on the trail. It was known that he had gone to Groton Tuesday afternoon from Pawtucket, R. I. His house was first visited. He had passed the night there but was gone when the officers arrived.

Search in several places failed to have the desired result. Finally Tomlinson was located near George R. Hempstead's plumbing shop.

The officers promptly placed him under arrest and took him to New London, where the three had dinner in a restaurant. Then he was brought here.

At the opening of court Wednesday morning Herman C. Gertz took his place on the witness stand and his cross examination was resumed, he remaining on the stand until noon. He

STAFFORD SPRINGS FAIR.
Children's Day on Wednesday—Big Crowd Well Entertained—Plenty of Diversion for All Comers.

The annual fair of the Stafford Springs Agricultural society opened on Wednesday. Tuesday, the day set for the opening of the fair, proved stormy, with the result that Tuesday's program was given Wednesday.

Never in the years that fairs have been given here was there a more nearly perfect day for a fair than Wednesday. The air was clear, crisp and balmy, and the sun shone all day long from a sky of blue.

The crowds began to arrive at the grounds as soon as the gates were opened and a steady stream of people on foot and in teams kept up all through the morning and afternoon. Many came by trolley from Rockville and Hartford and the intervening towns. The train on the Central Vermont were well crowded with fair goers, who hustled out to the grounds early and spent the whole day and much more in viewing the different exhibits and taking in the many shows and attractions along the midway, which this year is as lively and interesting as ever.

Children's Day.
Wednesday was children's day. All the schools in the borough were closed during the afternoon and hundreds of the little folks poured into the grounds at an early hour and stayed until the closing of the gates.

No admission fee was charged them and they had free access to the grand stand. But they seemed to have plenty of money to spend, and the candy, peanut and popcorn stands did a thriving business supplying their wants.

They manifested much interest in visiting and viewing the different exhibits. The freedom of the fair from games of chance, gambling and shows of a questionable nature is noticeable. Children and their elders viewed with much interest the excellent platform show, which has been provided by the management for the entertainment of the patrons of the fair. This feature embraces many performers who have gained enviable reputations in the leading vaudeville houses of the country.

Foot Guard Band.
The Governor's Foot Guard band of Hartford, which will furnish the music for the three days, was on hand and gained much praise from the crowd, who listened with pleasure to the selections so well rendered by this one of the best bands of the state.

One Race Run.
On account of it being children's day the racing card was not as lengthy or as speedy as will be offered today and Friday, only one race being run. The different exhibitors worked hard all day getting their exhibits in readiness for today when the judging for prizes will begin.

One of the noticeable features of the fair this year was the increased number of dining tents and restaurants where anything could be had from a "hot dog" to a turkey dinner, with cranberry sauce, celery, jellies, etc.

Excellent Exhibits.
There is an excellent exhibit of firm and garden produce in the main hall and the fancy and needlework attraction, many admitting spectators during the day.

Drills and Fancy Drumming.
The Father Mathew drum corps of Springfield was present and gave a number of exhibition drills and fancy drumming.

Deputy Sheriff Helm has charge of the police force and good order is maintained. All of the schools and business places will be closed today (Thursday), and the managers are preparing to accommodate a large crowd.

GOING TO ROCHESTER.

Daniel Counihan to Be Cartoonist on Democrat-Chronicle.

Daniel Counihan, known to all his Norwich friends as Bud, is visiting at his home on Oakridge street, before leaving for Rochester, N. Y., next week, where he is to take the position of cartoonist on the Democrat-Chronicle, a leading morning paper.

Mr. Counihan left here during the summer for New York, where he had been working for the New York Herald, which earned him ready recognition in the newspaper field there. Later he secured an advantageous position with an Albany paper, and from there was in Geneva for a short time, which proved a stepping stone to this promising position with the Rochester paper, which is just going into cartographic work. He also had an opening on the Evening Telegram in New York, but took the Rochester place in preference.

Local friends will be pleased to hear of Mr. Counihan's advancement. His baseball cartoons appearing in The Bulletin during the present season were a popular feature with the Norwich amateurs.

GILBERT TRANSPORTATION CO.

Unsettled Condition of Financial Affairs.

The financial affairs of the Gilbert Transportation company of Mystic are still in an unsettled condition. With regard to the outlook, however, both B. F. Williams and C. E. Wheeler, members of the executive committee of the board of directors, expressed the belief that things would be adjusted satisfactorily and the firm would continue to do business without a reserivation.

Monday's session of the board of directors in Hartford, news from which was quite eagerly awaited in Mystic, lasted late into Monday night and part of Tuesday morning at her home in Old Mystic at the age of 33 years, having been in ill health for some time. Death was caused by the infirmities of age.

Mrs. Chipman was born in Old Mystic December 10, 1875, the daughter of William and Fanny Lamphere Pendleton, and always had resided in that vicinity. She is survived by a daughter, Miss Lily Pendleton Chipman, and one son, Rev. W. P. Chipman, D.D., of Talcottville, Conn.

A few of the creditors of the company were at the meeting in Hartford on Monday, but no agreement was reached between them and the directors. It seems to be the opinion of most of the directors that if the creditors would allow the company a little more time it would be for the best interests of all concerned. At best, however, the directors have a big problem on their hands, and one of the questions is whether it would be advisable for them to invest more money in taking care of what they already have in the concern. Pendleton Brothers of New York, ship brokers, are among the company's largest creditors.

Noanik—A machine called the butter merger has been demonstrated by the agent for the machine this week. The combination of cream and butter and one pint of milk will produce two pounds of very palatable butter and is even considered by those who have used the production fully as good, if not better, than the average run of creamery butter. The machine is of simple construction and can be easily operated by children, besides being a money saving device.
